Message from the Chairman

Hello Members and Friends,

I am excited about The People's Campaign (TPC) – a growing group of people who are doing something that hasn't been done before! The Meetup to Move Brunch in Lexington is bringing the community together to:

1. Get Updates
2. Share Information
3. Get Organized
4. Find Out How To Support Others
5. Eat Well
6. Enjoy Music
7. Make and Renew Friendships

So, I hope that you can join us for the next one on April 22nd at Parlay Social from 11AM to 2PM.

I'm also excited about interest that is being expressed in other parts of the state from people who want to bring TPC to their communities! READ MORE

You Should Still Care About Bevin versus Beshear

By: Junis L. Baldon

The latest salvo in the ongoing battle between Governor Matt Bevin and Attorney General Andy Beshear trickled into the General Assembly this past legislative session, and almost led to a fundamental restructuring of executive power in Kentucky. HB 281, which started as an effort to increase public transparency and oversight over the Attorney General's use of outside legal counsel, turned into a fight about the authority of the Attorney General to represent Kentuckians in state and federal courts. Amendments by Senate President Robert Stivers to HB 281 threatened to strip the Attorney General of certain powers to litigate cases on behalf of the Commonwealth. HB 281 could have opened a new dynamic in the Beshear-Bevin political feud, and had tremendous implications for average Kentuckians. READ MORE

Prisons and Jails: The New Asylums

By: Joyce Carmouche

I recently showed a film in one of my classes entitled, "The New Asylum". The film illustrated in detail, the housing and treatment of the mentally ill in prisons and jails. While the film highlighted one of the better programs in existence in a maximum-security prison, it also brought home the flaws in a system that allows persons who are ill to be confined in a manner that can only add to their mental instability. It always occurs to me, we should be concerned about this. READ MORE
